About the Author

"As a child, I loved to write stories." As a member of her high school's literary magazine, her first article was published. After she received her undergraduate and Master's degrees, she became a technical writer for her roles with Head Start, the Employment Security Commission, Founder and Officer of Lift Every Voice Institute (LEVI), her community, and her church. She also continued to write short skits and produced several productions for her church and LEVI.

Although Fibromyalgia changed her life, she took control of her life and became gluten and yeast-free and moved to a new city, began line dancing, and became a member of the Bull City Writing Group and Triangle Association of Freelancers. As an author, she published two books, Nine Lives and Every Storm Runs out of Rain! In addition to writing, she is CEO of M. E. Henderson, Inc. and Limitless Publishing, Co. She is currently a doctoral student, a dance instructor, founder of Uhora Virtual Book Club, and a member of several book clubs. "Although I am blessed to be living my dreams, my greatest accomplishment is my role as mom."
